Increased Testing Capacity

- Testing increased from about 300 tests per 1 million persons on March 18 to about 18,300 per 1 million persons on April 11.
- As of March 30, the Public Health Lab is using equipment that allows for full automation and 500 samples per day.
- Health care providers across DC are testing for COVID-19.

As of April 10, 2020

Sampling Kits/Swabs

5,447

Tests

6,834

Testing Capacity

500/day

This week, the Public Health Lab has two rapid point-of-care instruments coming online that are easier to use and can be placed in a clinic or mobile laboratory.

- Testing to determine if a patient has the virus is being conducted at the Public Health Lab. These tests are “molecular” tests that look for the actual virus.
- Future tests that are “serology” tests will look for the presence of antibodies to COVID-19.
- The Public Health Lab will have serology testing capability in May.

Currently no one knows what the COVID-19 “immune response” looks like. This serology testing will be needed to determine if patients have developed immunity.

Since opening on Friday, April 3, 410 people have been tested at UMC.

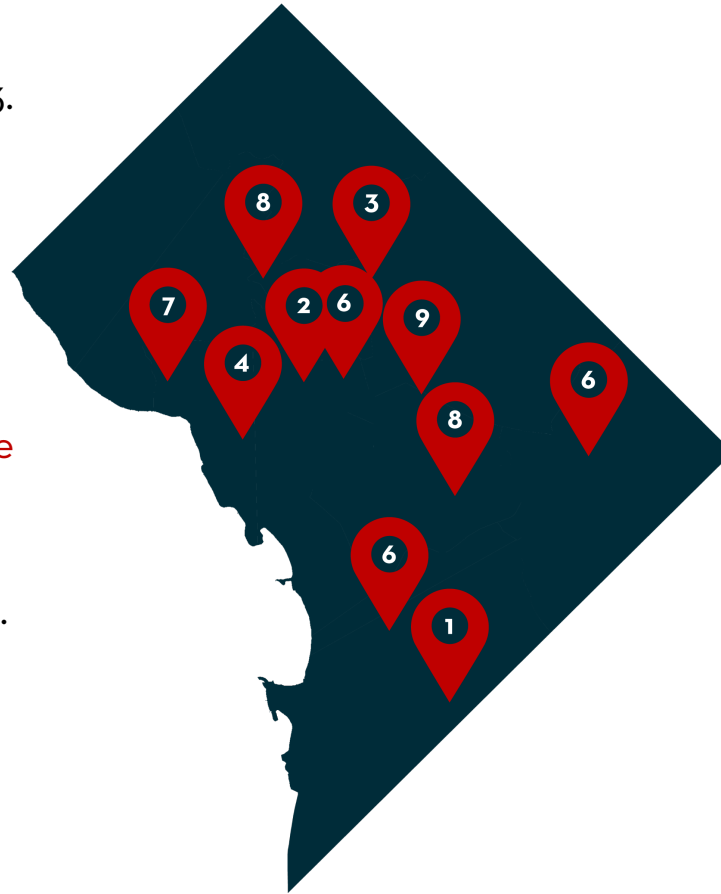

DC residents with symptoms can call the hotline to be tested at UMC.
